

Electromyography (EMG): Additional Information

Requiring a Chaperone

It is the policy of NHS Lothian to respect the privacy and dignity of all our patients. NHS Lothian is committed to providing a safe and comfortable environment where patients can be confident that best practice is being followed at all times.

For attending your Electromyography (EMG) appointment, a chaperone can be provided. This chaperone will be a NHS professional who will be familiar with the investigation/procedure and will be available to reassure you and raise any concerns on your behalf.

If you would like a chaperone to be present during your Electromyography (EMG) appointment, please contact the department on the number provided, prior to your appointment. Failure to do so may result in a chaperone not being available and your appointment being rearranged.
